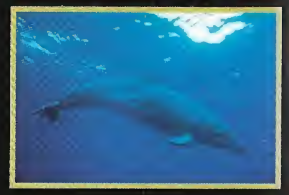
JUMP FOR JOY



We all know Flipper, the tame dolphin with his own TV show. But what of his wild relatives in the open sea?
Des and Jen Bartlett, Survival's award winning camera team, travel to Patagonia to meet Bert Wuersig the dolphin man. They find that unlike captive dolphins, who have to jump to order, the wild ones jump for joy in total freedom. Then they meet the dolphin's giant relatives, the awesome Killer Whales.

Filmed by Des & Jen Bartlett.
Produced by Colin Willock.

RICHEST SEA IN THE WORLD

The Gulf of California is an 800 mile long finger of blue water which has been home to dolphins, whales, pelicans, sea lions and many more species for thousands of years.

Filmed by Des & Jen Bartlett.
Produced by Colin Willock.

A DREAM OF MERMAIDS

Manatees are large rotund creatures, growing up to 14ft long and up to half a ton in weight, with a bristly, jowly face, gentle, peaceful animals, found around the warm springs of Florida. Although manatee hunting is now illegal, they are still in great danger from mankind in the form of speedboats which use the same area. Many are killed or wounded by whirling propeller blades when they are feeding just below the surface.

Filmed by Jeff Foon.
Produced by Colin Willock.
